What is being proposed rather than announced?

OPEN SATURDAY imagines a community book-exchange conversation. The title is a fictional name, not a real date, opening announcement or invitation to attend.

The document organises purpose, imagined experience, roles and open questions. It does not establish that any real event can proceed.

Planning question

Use this section to record a bounded response to the question below. Retain the distinction between the fictional example, your interpretation and any separate evidence a real use would require.

02 / OPEN SATURDAY

Read the event concept in order.

CONCEPT ORDER

NOT A REAL TIMED PROGRAMME

Introduce → explore

Clarify purpose and questions

Exchange → close

Which section requires separate responsible review?

Which section requires separate responsible review?

Begin with purpose and audience question, then the imagined exchange, responsibilities, communication and handoff. Separate the concept from a real operational plan.

The reading order is not a timed running sheet. No times, duration, venue capacity, staffing requirement or turnout estimate is supplied.

Planning question

Use this section to record a bounded response to the question below. Retain the distinction between the fictional example, your interpretation and any separate evidence a real use would require.

03 / OPEN SATURDAY

Name the purpose without claiming demand.

CONCEPT ORDER	Introduce → explore	Exchange → close
NOT A REAL TIMED PROGRAMME	Clarify purpose and questions	What would establish a meaningful real purpose?

What would establish a meaningful real purpose?

The fictional purpose is to create a setting in which people could exchange books and conversation. That is an intention, not a measured community need.

No participant research or commitment exists. A real organiser would need context-specific evidence and an appropriate review process before making public promises.

04 / OPEN SATURDAY

Describe an imagined arrival.

NOT A REAL TIMED PROGRAMME	Clarify purpose and questions	Which arrival question cannot be answered from the scene?

Which arrival question cannot be answered from the scene?

Imagine a reader encountering a clear explanation of the concept and choosing whether to join a conversation. This is not a route or access instruction for a real venue.

The illustration supplies atmosphere only. It cannot establish usable entrances, capacities, emergency arrangements or accessibility.

05 / OPEN SATURDAY

Keep the exchange rules provisional.

CONCEPT ORDER	Introduce → explore	Exchange → close
NOT A REAL TIMED PROGRAMME	Clarify purpose and questions	Which rule would require real contextual review?

Which rule would require real contextual review?

A concept discussion might ask how books would be described, what choices participants would have and what information would need to be available. No operating rules are approved.

Do not turn the example into instructions for handling real property or participant records.

Appropriate responsibilities and conditions would need separate clarification.

06 / OPEN SATURDAY

Use role categories honestly.

CONCEPT ORDER	Introduce → explore	Exchange → close
NOT A REAL TIMED PROGRAMME	Clarify purpose and questions	Who could verify a real responsibility?

Who could verify a real responsibility?

Possible categories include concept writer, source reviewer, venue contact and communication reviewer. These labels do not appoint people or confirm that they consented to a task.

A real event would require agreed responsibilities outside this template. Do not fill gaps with invented names or imply an approval through a tidy table.

07 / OPEN SATURDAY

Sequence the discussion without a clock.

CONCEPT ORDER	Introduce → explore	Exchange → close
NOT A REAL TIMED PROGRAMME	Clarify purpose and questions	What dependency must be clarified before scheduling?

What dependency must be clarified before scheduling?

The concept sequence is introduce, explore, exchange questions and close. These are discussion headings, not times or technical cues.

A real programme would require appropriate planning and review. This document gives no schedule, operational procedure or promise about what happens on an actual day.

Planning question

Use this section to record a bounded response to the question below. Retain the distinction between the fictional example, your interpretation and any separate evidence a real use would require.

08 / OPEN SATURDAY

Communicate only what exists.

CONCEPT ORDER	Introduce → explore	Exchange → close
NOT A REAL TIMED PROGRAMME	Clarify purpose and questions	Which phrase could accidentally announce a real event?

Which phrase could accidentally announce a real event?

A draft message should label the idea as under discussion and state the response being sought. It should not announce a confirmed venue, booking or attendance opportunity.

The example contains no real registration, ticket or checkout. A call to action must match something that actually exists in the intended context.

Use this section to record a bounded response to the question below. Retain the distinction between the fictional example, your interpretation and any separate evidence a real use would require.

09 / OPEN SATURDAY

Collect questions, not invented outcomes.

CONCEPT ORDER	Introduce → explore	Exchange → close
NOT A REAL TIMED PROGRAMME	Clarify purpose and questions	What would a responsible real evaluation require?

What would a responsible real evaluation require?

After a fictional concept discussion, record what remains unclear and what type of source is needed. Do not report a turnout, satisfaction score or completed event.

Any real evaluation would need its own method and responsible data handling. No participant identifiers are needed in this document.

Planning question

Use this section to record a bounded response to the question below. Retain the distinction between the fictional example, your interpretation and any separate evidence a real use would require.

10 / OPEN SATURDAY

Leave the concept ready for review.

CONCEPT ORDER	Introduce → explore	Exchange → close
NOT A REAL TIMED PROGRAMME	Clarify purpose and questions	What remains outside the scope of this planning document?

What remains outside the scope of this planning document?

The handoff states purpose, fictional status, unresolved conditions and the response requested. It does not declare the event ready to run.

No date, venue, permissions, safety process or access approval is supplied. Keep those boundaries visible wherever the concept is shared.
